REPUBLICANS GET A LITTLE ENCOURAGEMENT

Official Recount in California Makes But a Few Changes and These Favor Wilson

San Francisco, Nov. 14—Official recount of the presidential electoral vote in this state was resumed today with only minor changes in the standing of the candidates from what was given in the unofficial returns. As a result of the first day's work President Wilson had the better of it however, and the Republicans hope that the recount will make enough difference to give the state to Hughes, its fast dwindling.

In San Francisco, precincts checked so far, Wilson has made a gain of six votes and he also gained a few votes in Alameda, Riverside, Marin, Colusa and Monterey.

In Kern county Hughes made a gain of eleven votes but lost ten, giving him a net of but one.

The recount in Los Angeles is held up for a time pending the finding of four lists which have been lost. These are thought to have been placed in the wrong envelope and will show up later.

Wilson May Lose One Vote

Portland, Oregon, Nov. 14—President Wilson is likely to lose one of the electoral votes in Idaho according to a dispatch from Boise. James Plinn, one of the electors, on the Democratic ticket, was also a candidate for the legislature and was elected. Under the state law the presidential electors are disqualified if they hold any state office.

BARNABEE IS 83 YEARS OLD TODAY

Noted Son of Portsmouth Famous in Comic Opera for Half a Century.

Surrounded by members of his family and neighbors, Henry Clay Barnabee today celebrated the 83d anniversary of his birth at his home in Jamaica Plain. Mr. Barnabee is one of the well-known, old-time, famous comic opera singers of the Bostonians.

He is the only surviving member of the company, which was owned by Barnabee, Carl and McDonald.

Natives of this city well remember him, and so do opera-goers of the last century, who enjoyed his work as Sir Joseph Porter "of the Queen's Navee," who remember him as the man who played the Sheriff of Nottingham in "Robin Hood" no less than 1900 times.

Mr. Barnabee, though handicapped in his walk, is just as well and young in spirit as in his early days. He will receive letters and telegrams from old friends today, as he has in past years, and it is with pleasure that he looks forward for these congratulations. He makes his home with his niece, Mrs. Henry C. Brewer of Hancock avenue, Jamaica Plain. This has been his home since his retirement from the stage, almost a score of years ago. One of the letters which he looks forward to is from another niece, Mrs. Barnet Smith, formerly of this city, who is now living in the West.

VILLA THREATENS CHIHUAHUA

Concentrating a Good Sized Army West of the City.

(Special to The Herald)
El Paso, Nov. 14—General Villa is again concentrating his forces at Santa Ysabel west of Chihuahua City preparing to move on the state capital. Denials of reports that the government intended to desert Chihuahua City was given color when it was announced that General Gonzalez with a guard of 100 men had left for Chihuahua to pay off the soldiers of General Trevino, whose loyalty had begun to waver since they were paid off in Carranza paper money. They will now be paid in silver.

COUNTRY IN GRIP OF WINTER

(Special to The Herald)
Boston, Mass., Nov. 14—The mercury in the thermometer in this city took the elevator, "going down" today and there was a drop to twenty-five above at ten o'clock this morning and still falling. The predictions are for fair tonight but more cold weather. Snow was falling practically all over New England today. At Northfield, Vt., there was ten inches at ten o'clock and still snowing. At Greenfield and Houlton, Me., there was six inches and the same depth at Hallowell, N. H. and in Burlington, Vt.

COURT SENDS THE JURY OUT AGAIN

Sets Aside the Verdict in Joint Case of Whiting and Sussman

The jury in the court case of Hazen L. Whiting and Harry Sussman, came in on Monday evening and awarded a verdict to Whiting of $50 for the loss of a mule. Today when the court resumed and the verdict was opened by the court, Judge Chamberlain called the jurors together and told them that he would set the verdict aside as it was apparent that they had misunderstood the law and went directly against the charge made by the court, following the evidence in the case. He questioned Foreman W. J. Carter on the reasons for submitting the verdict on the part of the jury. Carter explained at length what lead up to the decision of the jury and why no verdict was found against Whiting. The court then made a second charge to the jury and ordered them out for the second time, just before 11 o'clock. The case grew out of an accident on the Lafayette road a year ago when Sussman's automobile ran into a mule. Whiting sued for $250 for the loss of the animal, and Sussman for the same amount for the damage to his machine.

The case of Edward Berry of Greenland against the Northeastern Railway, who own the Long Bridge across the Hampton river was called on Monday afternoon and a jury empaneled. This is an action to recover for injuries received by the plaintiff while riding a motorcycle over the bridge, which he claimed was defective and caused him to be thrown from his machine and badly injured.

The jury, after the opening were excused until this afternoon when they were taken in automobiles to view the scene of the accident, returning at noon.

ELKS SCORED WITH ANNUAL BARN DANCE

Two Hundred or More Costumed Dancers Enjoyed Party in Pierce Hall Last Evening

From eight o'clock Monday evening until an early hour in the morning more than 150 couples made merry at the annual barn dance in Pierce Hall, conducted under the auspices of the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks. In addition to the large number dancing the balconies of the hall were well filled with spectators, many remaining until the last dance had been played. The affair was an entire success from the "husking party" held from eight until nine o'clock, and just as long as there was anything doing, and there was something doing every moment throughout the evening.

The hall had been transformed by the work of the decorating committee and had the appearance of a real barn, large quantities of hay, grain, corn, wheat, barrels of farm produce, and a number of animals, including goats, chickens, calves, and others. All of the dancers were in costume and these ranged from the comely to the beautiful. Prizes for the costumes were awarded by the judges to Miss Gertrude Lyons, dressed in an old-fashioned costume of the time of our great grandmothers, a barrel of apples; and Edward H. Voudy, a school-boy, awarded a live pig. All of the costumes were excellent and the judges were forced to a great deal of hard work in order to make the awards.

The party was in charge of a large committee with Russell Badger, chairman, and included Fred Schneider, Frank Trueman, C. A. Lowd, Walter A. Badger, Arthur E. Horton, Dr. C. E. Johnson, Charles H. Brackett, Ralph Morrison, James Harvey, V. A. Helt, Fred Helt, Charles W. Gray, William J. Murphy, James W. Barrett, Bernard J. McGraw, Charles Costello, Edward J. Conney, James W. Scott, John C. McDonough, Charles H. Amhoff and William F. Woods.

The party was a success from both a financial and a social standpoint although the disagreeable weather prevented many from attending. The success of a year ago at the first barn dance, held in October, was exceeded by the party held last evening.

(Special to The Herald)

BRITISH IN HARD DRIVES ON SOMME

Capture Beaumont-Hamel With 5000 German Prisoners

(Special to The Herald)

London, Nov. 14—Fighting on the Somme front today commands the attention of the world. The new British drive to the west of Beaumont is the British contribution to the great Allied offensive to save Roumania. The battle of Amiens which has carried the British a mile and a half into the German lines, has been continued with undiminished vigor. The attack has been carried forward without help from the French, and with Beaumont-Hamel in their possession, the British are pounding the lines of the Germans over a distance of fifteen miles. The attacks are being carried out under a rain of shells from the hundreds of German guns on the German front. From the point of fierceness of attack the attempt of the Allies to encircle Bapaume is entering upon an entirely new phase.

Austro-German reinforcements are arriving in the East to meet the heavy attacks of the Russian-Rumanian forces. Unofficial reports are that the forces of Von Mackensen in the Dobruja are in a sore strait, but these have not been confirmed by the official reports from either Roumania or Germany. There is little doubt however, but that the Germans have had to retreat, but just how much is not known.

In Macedonia the Serbians are following up their campaign against Monastir and making steady advances, although the Bulgarian-German forces are making stubborn resistance and the Serbs are paying heavily for the capture of their country.

London, Nov. 14—The powerful offensive launched by the British yesterday was continued all last night. The capture of Beaumont-Hamel was officially announced this morning by the war office. It was carried in a storm attack, sweeping east of Beaumont-Hamel until the British reached the outskirts of Bapaume where heavy fighting is still in progress. Between four and five thousand prisoners were taken.

chapel, commencing at 9 o'clock. After the business was concluded, a social hour was passed. Mrs. John D. Randall, Mrs. Ira A. Stevens, Mrs. Frank W. Reimick served tea, fancy wafers and candy.

Providence Journal Claims
Statement Comes From Highest Authority.

While Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce and Labor is authority for the statement that there will be no changes in the cabinet of President Wilson, the Providence Journal, a paper which has always lead on inside information makes the following statement regarding Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy: "The Journal is able to say on the highest authority that Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, will not be a member of President Wilson's next cabinet. This decision is not the result of any new alignment; it was arrived at a year ago. There is no reason to believe that Secretary Daniels was notified at that time of President Wilson's desire to fill the office with a new man if he were re-elected."

"It is understood that the next secretary of the navy will be a subordinate who has never held a public office of any kind."

This no doubt will cause some surprise to the local friends of the secretary and navy yard workmen who hope that the Journal has misread the mark this time and that Mr. Daniels will continue at the head of the department in which he has proved a valuable man.

SIR SAM HUGHES RESIGNS POSITION

Head of Canadian Military Organization Could Not Agree With Premier.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—General Sir Sam Hughes has resigned as Canadian Minister of Militia and Defense. His resignation was requested.

The break between General Hughes and Premier Borden and other members of the Canadian government resulted from differences over questions of policy and details of administration. Lately the friction has increased. One of the points over which a difference arose was the supplying of the Canadian forces with the British army rifle. Gen. Hughes, it is reported, advocated instead the use of a Canadian weapon.

Some time ago Gen. Hughes returned from England with a plan for a Canadian war council in England with a deputy minister of militia at its head. The Canadian government, however, held that more than 200,000

Canadian troops in France or in training in England, there should be an overseas minister of militia. General Hughes opposed this.

When the government insisted, Gen. Hughes suggested that Sir Max Aitken should be appointed to the new post. Premier Borden, however, appointed Sir George Perley. This took from Gen. Hughes control of a large part of the Canadian troops.

While in England Gen. Hughes relieved Gen. Guy Carleton Jones of the command of the Canadian medical force. The government replaced Gen. Jones.

Criticism by Gen. Hughes of action by British authorities in handling of Canadian army supplies and of the Canadian forces, it is said has been resented.

It has been stated that there was a lack of cordiality between Gen. Hughes and the Duke of Connaught, who has just left Canada, after five years service as governor-general. Under Gen. Hughes' Administration Canada has raised over 400,000 men for overseas military service.

General Hughes was appointed minister of militia in 1911. Last year he was knighted by King George. His resignation was demanded in connection with war contracts awarded to American companies. He demanded an investigation which resulted in his exoneration.

FUNERAL OF JUDGE BALES

Wilton, Nov. 13.—The funeral of Judge George E. Bales was held at the Unitarian church yesterday afternoon. Over 400 people were in attendance, many friends and associates of the well known man coming from all parts of the state to pay their final tributes to his memory.

The service was conducted by Rev. Edward P. Daniels of the Unitarian church, followed by the Masonic service of the grand lodge of New Hampshire, of which Judge Bales was grand master at the time of his death. The Shubert Male quartet of Boston furnished music.

The honorary bearers were all past grand masters of the Grand Masonic lodge of the state, and were as follows: George L. McAllister, Manchester; Charles C. Hayes, Manchester; Dr. George W. Currier, Nashua; Stephen S. Jewett, Laconia; Harry M. Cheney, Concord; and Fred W. Sawyer, Milford.

FACTORY CELEBRATES BY GIFT OF POTATOES.

Zurich, Nov. 13.—A large plant factory in Nidau, Switzerland, has just turned out its two-thousandth instrument. Instead of celebrating this event with a banquet, the firm sent five hundred pounds of potatoes to each of its employees. The men were greatly pleased with this strange jubilee gift, as potatoes cost from three to four cents a pound and are almost unobtainable even at this exorbitant price.

PERSHING'S ARMY BUILDS HUTS FOR WINTER

Field Headquarters, Punitive Expedition, Mexico, by aeroplane to Columbus, N. M., Nov. 10.—Preparations for living in warmth and comfort during the winter months are in full swing in all the camps of the punitive expedition from the border to El Valle.

The tented cities of the summer months are disappearing and in their stead are rising little villages of mud huts. Already the officers of division headquarters have been transferred from big tents to a long row of dwellings. Each officer boasts a fireplace. By the first of December hardly a tent will be standing in any of the camps of General Pershing's command.

Whole regiments are already living in mud houses. For weeks the enlisted men in all branches of the service have been making holes, brick and erecting little huts. Comfortable one-room "residences" are being built by the officers. Crude fireplaces are part of every dwelling. Cold winter nights will hold no terrors when the homes are finished.

Bathing has been done in the open air under improvised showers, with wooden barrels as overhead tanks. Now, about bathhouses are being built, with big gates where huge tubs of water can be heated.

Campfires are beginning to glow for the first time since last spring when the troops crossed the border. The nightly gathering of officers around the fires in front of regimental headquarters has begun again; while huge bonfires attract troopers and infantrymen in different portions of the camp.

Winter clothing has not yet been issued to the troops, except overcoats. However, each newly arriving truck train brings the heavy underwear and outer garments worn by American and diets in cold weather. In a short time the ten thousand men of General Pershing's column will be completely fitted out for the winter months.

Big shipments of Sibley stoves are expected soon, so there will be no lack of warmth in the houses occupied by the men and officers.

This camp is situated at an elevation of about 5000 feet and the El Valle encampment is nearly 1000 feet higher. No snow has fallen yet but the nights are becoming very cold. The days are nearly always warm.

A number of the regiments in Mexico, infantry and cavalry alike are spending their first winter in the field in many years. Many men are watching closely to see how their men endure the rigors of this new experience.

In most cases Mexican workmen are employed by the officers to build their dwellings. Houses for the enlisted men have been constructed almost entirely by themselves. Material, such as roof timbers, corrugated sheets and tar paper for roofs and glass for windows is purchased at the quartermaster's depot here.

No provision has been made yet for sheltering the thousands of horses and mules in service here, but it is reported that plans for this are in the making.

Unlike most of his officers General Pershing prefers a tent as a dwelling place whether it be summer or winter. He has said there will be a "Bunkhouse" built for him this winter. A small oil stove takes the chill off the canvas huts, where he "transmits" most of his dispatches.

When the expedition is withdrawn

a complete village will be left behind, ready for the occupancy of any natives who wander this way looking for a home.

PERUVIANS LIKE AMERICAN HARDWARE

Peru is one American country where American hardware outsells all rivals. The total imports of this class of goods in the normal year 1913 were valued at $2,617,007, of which the United States furnished $1,010,742, according to a report on the subject issued today by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce. The nearest rivals were England with $562,337 and Germany with $119,961.

Since the war started American manufacturers have had a decided advantage over their old competitors and have considerably strengthened their position in the market, although the consumptive capacity of the country has been curtailed by the war. The goodwill of old customers has been retained and satisfactory relations established with many houses that formerly dealt only with European firms. The excellent reputation for quality previously established for American hardware has been of great help to American manufacturers and exporters since the war started.

The Peruvian report is the third to be issued on the hardware markets of the world, and like the first two is concerned with the general conditions governing the hardware trade and with the practical details concerning the sale of each particular article of hardware. Among the chapters are: Extent to which hardware is used; General factors affecting American trade; Features of goods that win favor; System of conducting trade; Methods of entering markets; Packing; Credit information; Usual method of financing sales; and fifteen chapters on particular lines of hardware, such as Artisan's tools and supplies, mining tools, agricultural hardware, cutlery, builders' hardware, shelf hardware.

"Peruvian Markets for American Hardware," Miscellaneous Series, No. 39, contains 64 pages and may be purchased for 10 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, or from the nearest district office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

PLAN POPULAR SUBSCRIPTION TO MEET DEFICIT

DEMOCRATS TO ASK $100 FROM
EACH OF 2000 CITIES, LEAVING
$100,000 TO INDIVIDUALS.

New York, Nov. 13.—Plans for meeting by popular subscription the $300,000 deficit, which it was announced, was incurred by the Democratic nation at campaign committee in its fight to re-elect President Wilson, were proposed here today by Wilbur W. Marsh, treasurer of the committee. The proposal calls for an appeal to 2000 cities each to raise $100, leaving the rest to such individuals as may be willing and able to pay it off.

Mr. Marsh said that in view of the popular vote the President received he thought the plan to popularize the paying off of the deficit would be attended with the same success as characterized the collection of the original fund, the bulk of which came from many thousands of contributors in small amounts.

"THE HOUSE OF GLASS"

The first week is announced for the Cohen and Harris production success "The House of Glass," with Mary Ryan at the Park Square Theatre, Boston. The success attending this production is only another evidence that the public seek to have their drama built upon frames that are of the simplest construction, giving thrill aplenty as well as the pictures of character sympathetic and with the evening quillies of humor. Max Merz, built exceedingly well in the story of a young woman wrongfully convicted of a crime of which circumstantial evidence "accused" her. The position in the world in which the penance imposed upon her because of this conviction placed her, makes for the most stirring pictures of social drama that has graced our stage, reaching right to the heart of the audience in sympathy and interest in this fault of our laws and courts. That this drama ran an entire season in New York is verifying proof that the play is far from ordinary. Much of the credit of the production may be placed to the all round cast of excellence that Cohen and Harris have given the play. Headed by Mary Ryan and going down through the entire list there is not a miscast player.

Beginning Monday, November 27, Cohen and Harris will present Mr. Leo Ditchstein and his superb supporting company in the romantic comedy success, "The Great Lover." This is the famous satirical love story of a grand opera story which broke all records last season in New York. It is now in its third month of its Chicago engagement. "The Great Lover" is said to provide more hearty laughs than any of Mr. Ditchstein's former successes, and when it considered the brand of humor purveyed by the distinguished artist, it is of the highest calibre this is saying much.

GERMAN SHIPS SUNK IN RAID OFF FINLAND

Petrograd, via London, Nov. 13.—An official statement issued here today says that a majority of German vessels which took part Friday in a bombardment in the gulf of Finland were sunk.

The German ships, the statement says, were 36-knot torpedo craft.

The text of the Russian official statement reads:

"Baltic sea: On Friday night, a flotilla of the enemy's 36-knot torpedo craft entered the bay of Finland. A dense fog hindered discovery of the enemy's vessels in good time and in consequence the enemy succeeded in bombarding the Baltic coast for several minutes.

"About 100 shells, mostly shrapnel were fired. Seven civilians, including five children, and two rank and file, were killed. One woman and four soldiers were damaged and 12 horses were killed.

"The enemy retired hurriedly, but we sank a majority of the torpedo craft. Further pursuit of hostile units was abandoned in consequence of dense fog and the timely discovery of the enemy's traps."

Serbs Win Big Victory in Cerna River

Paris, Nov. 13.—The Serbians have won a brilliant victory over the Germans and Bulgarians in the Cerna district southeast of Monastir, the war office announced today. The Serbians, supported by French artillery, forced the Teutonic allies to retire a distance of nearly two miles and captured about 1000 prisoners.

The retreat of the German-Bulgarian force was compelled after a battle lasting two days.

The prisoners taken raise the total captured since Sept. 12, says the statement, to 6000 men, together with 72 cannon and 63 machine guns taken during this period.

Serbs Capture Ivan, North of Polog
London, Nov. 13.—Continuing their pursuit of retreating Bulgarian forces which were driven out of Polog in the Cerna front fighting, Serbian troops have captured Ivan, north of Polog.

The fighting in this section has been continuous night and day, the official statement which told of Ivan's capture said. Bulgarians, time after time, attacked and occasionally gained a temporary advantage which they failed, however, to maintain.

Fighting was particularly fierce along the Monastir-Florina railway.

Russians, Roumanians and Franco-Serbs are continuing their hammering against the lines of the central powers on every eastern and southern front today. At some points, Germans and Austrians are attacking fiercely, but, according to advices from all the capitals the larger successes are being won by the arms of the entente allies.

French troops are today co-ordinating the trenches and positions they wrested from the Germans yesterday. At Sully-Sallisel, on the west front, at which point sporadic German attempts to recapture the positions are going on with increasing intensity. A comparative lull maintains on other sections of the western front. The fighting about Cernavoda for possession of the great Danube span that forms the longest bridge in Europe, and where for days the Russian right wing is reported from Petrograd to have partly succeeded in turning Mackensen's left flank, apparently has reached its most critical stage. Since the dispatches which told of Cernavoda in flames and of Constantza, where the Austro-German-Bulgarian extreme right has had its base on the Black sea, fired, only meagre details have reached here regarding the Dobrudja clash.

Military experts believe the result of Cernavoda will depend partly on the 30-mile forward dash of Russo-Roumanians against Gen. Falkenhayn's armies in Transylvania, far below the Bukovina border, where defensive movements have been succeeded by a sledgehammer offensive. Any measurable successes in this region, the experts believe, must weaken the Cernavoda-Constantza front of Mackensen. Bulgars, reinforced after Friday's Serbo-French successes on the Cerna front, apparently have failed to stem the advances, for King Peter's headquarters last night reported further material progress, including advancement of the allied lines and taking of considerable booty.

Violent Battle Raging About Bend in Cerna River

Paris, Nov. 13.—A most violent battle is raging with continued success for the French-Serbian forces in the region about the big bend in the Cerna river, Salonika headquarters reported to the war office today. Fighting has been going on there two days and nights.

The war office announcement confirmed the report from Serbian headquarters saying Teuton-Bulgar forces were driven from the village of Ivan and the French official statement added that the retreating armies are "falling back in disorder." The Serbian pursuit continues, despite five counterattacks.

The enemy's losses were serious, the statement added.

"Somewhat to the west the Serbians have further progressed north of Vellesco," says the statement. "Since

A JOURNALISTIC EFFORT IN THE LAND OF THE ESKIMO

"Why are you trying to educate the Eskimo? Why don't you let them alone? They were happy and were able to exist before you began to change their mode of life." These are the questions that are asked and answered in "The Eskimo," a monthly magazine published at Nome, Alaska, in the interests of Eskimos of the Northwestern District of Alaska. Walter C. Shields, superintendent of the work of the Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior, in northwestern Alaska, who writes the leading article in this new magazine of the North, says:

"The people who ask these questions, if they are really sincere enough to warrant any consideration, can be divided into two classes. First, those who display their scientific knowledge by quoting the law of 'the survival of the fittest,' with the assumption that the Eskimo is not fit to survive. The second class claim a peculiar insight into the frame of mind of the ancient Eskimo, who, they assert, was an especially contented individual, and furthermore they insist that the Eskimo of today is not contented. This set of critics insists on taking the position, indefensible in this day and generation, that education is a bad thing for a people. The claim of our service is that the Eskimo by reason of his inherent qualities and because of his geographical position is fit and able to survive and we claim that by our system of education for him we are making him not only more fit to survive, but that he will be a vital factor in the development of Northern Alaska."

"The Eskimo is not dependent. On the contrary, he is, even in his present condition, a real and vital factor in the wealth of the country. He has never received a ration from the Government; he can support himself, not always according to our standards, but he is better for him to rely on his own native food than for him to learn to expect the Government to support him. The wall so often heard from ignorant but presumably charitable people, 'Why don't you give the poor people some food?' If heeded, would make paupers out of a self-supporting and noble race. We are proud of the fact that we have not fed the Eskimo. We are proud of him as a man because he feeds himself.

"One reason why primitive races have so often been pushed to the wall by the white race has been that the white race have coveted and needed the land. As far as we can see, for years to come the white man will not make any attempt to push the Eskimo off his part of the map. While there will undoubtedly be developments in mining, yet for a long time to come the Eskimo will have plenty of room in northern Alaska. Therefore, even if this northern part of Alaska, through some unexpected development, should become desirable for a large white population, we believe that with what development the Eskimo has already received, and the additional develop-

LITTLE BOY FOILS PLOT TO CONCEAL SLAYING

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 13.—Because a little boy of five knew the difference between a murder and a suicide, Earl Burgess of Company I, thirty-fourth infantry is facing trial for his life for the killing of Sergt. P. A. Alexander of the same company.

Alexander's death had been formally declared a case of suicide by the coroner; Burgess was at Camp Stewart unsuspected and Alexander's beautiful widow becomingly gowned in deep mourning was receiving the sympathy of her neighbors when her little son gave the information that resulted in Burgess arrest on a charge of murder.

"There's the little boy whose papa committed suicide, one boy remarked to another as Mrs. Alexander's son passed by.

"My papa did not commit suicide. A soldier shot and killed him" was the reply.

The boys laughed, "but a plain-clothes man heard the remark and it set him thinking. An investigation was started and Burgess and the woman were soon under arrest. Then they admitted that Alexander had been shot by Burgess, but they told a story of shooting in self-defense after a quarrel of which she was the center.

Alexander was found shot to death in his home on October 3. He had been in Port Clark for some time and had only recently returned to El Paso. Neighbors said meantime that Burgess had been a frequent caller at the Alexander home.

When the police arrived Mrs. Alexander told them that her husband had become despondent and had shot and killed himself. She related such a convincing story that Coroner J. M. Dwyer rendered a verdict of suicide. It was ten days later that Mrs. Alexander's son by a former marriage, Manuel Mandiver, gave the true story of the killing. Burgess up to that time had not even been questioned.

When Burgess was arraigned in court the child was the chief witness against him.

"That is the man who killed my papa," the boy said. He shot him in the mouth. My papa fell to the floor and then the soldier went away. My mamma cried after my papa was dead and I found the bullet that killed him. I carried it in my pocket a few days and then a big boy took it away from me. The soldier had his gun in his hand. It was a short gun. He and papa and my mamma had been quarrelling."

No cross-examination could shake the child's story.

"I know where bad boys go if they don't tell the truth," he said in answer to a question.

When Mrs. Alexander was called to the stand she admitted that Burgess had shot her husband. She said that she and Burgess had been friendly for some time, and then when her husband returned she refused to leave her home for the other man. Then, she swore, a quarrel began at which Burgess was present.

Her husband, she said, fired a shot at her and shot all to the floor, feigning to be dead. Alexander then turned on Burgess, she testified, saying, "I'll get you too. He fired again, but again missed and Burgess shot and killed him."

The Coast Guard.

When people read of severe storms along the coast and the saving of lives by the coast guards they think little about it. They know that heavy storms make trouble on the coast, that the life savers are placed there for service in times of emergency, that it is their business to risk their own lives in the saving of others, and beyond this the great public thinks nothing of the matter.

But the fact is that the work of the coast guard is one of the most serious and strenuous in the world. He may have his days of ease when the breezes are gentle and the sea is smooth, but there come times when the breezes are not gentle and the sea is not smooth, and then the coast guards have to do their work. Craft from the smallest motor boat to the largest sea-going vessel are liable to show up in trouble and the life savers have to "get busy" without stopping to think of the risk of their own lives in the work they are about to perform.

Only a few days ago there was a bad storm along the Atlantic coast, though by no means so severe as is experienced every now and then. But the sea was rough and many lives were endangered. And then came the life guards to the rescue. Fifty lives were saved in the immediate vicinity of New York city. People out in motor boats and fishing boats found themselves in trouble, and had it not been for the brave men who patrol the coast, ready night and day to go to the aid of sufferers, many of these unfortunate people would never have lived to tell the tale.

The work of the life guards on the coast is rugged and heroic, and yet few regard the life savers as heroes. "It is their business," says a careless public, and "they are paid for their work." True, but what work, and what pay for the work they do!

The pay of these men is small. They serve because they like the work and are made of the stuff that is not afraid to face peril. They are entitled to as many honors as go to men in the army and navy, but they do not receive them. They are regarded by the majority of people as merely "hired men," and their small stipend is all the compensation they receive. But in the true sense of the word they are heroes and should be recognized as such. All honor to the brave men who constitute the coast guard. There are none braver; none more deserving of recognition and adequate reward for their labors.

The director of Massachusetts prisons says that probation has reduced the prison population of that state one third. This may be so, but it may be questioned whether the state has been benefited in proportion. Probation has its uses, but there are those who feel that there is danger of overlooking it. Reducing prison populations by keeping out persons who ought to be in does not constitute reform or necessarily imply that the world is growing better as fast as is claimed.

Preparations for winter equipment indicate that many troops are to be kept on the border all winter. Insects and rattlers should not be so troublesome as in summer and the climate should be preferable to that of the frozen North, and yet it is probable that if the question were to be decided by ballot the soldiers would come home.

Five states went into the "dry" column at the recent election making 24 in all, and the prohibitionists are jubilant. But if they maintain such regulations as exist in some of the southern dry states the "convivialists" should be able to endure the situation without undue suffering.

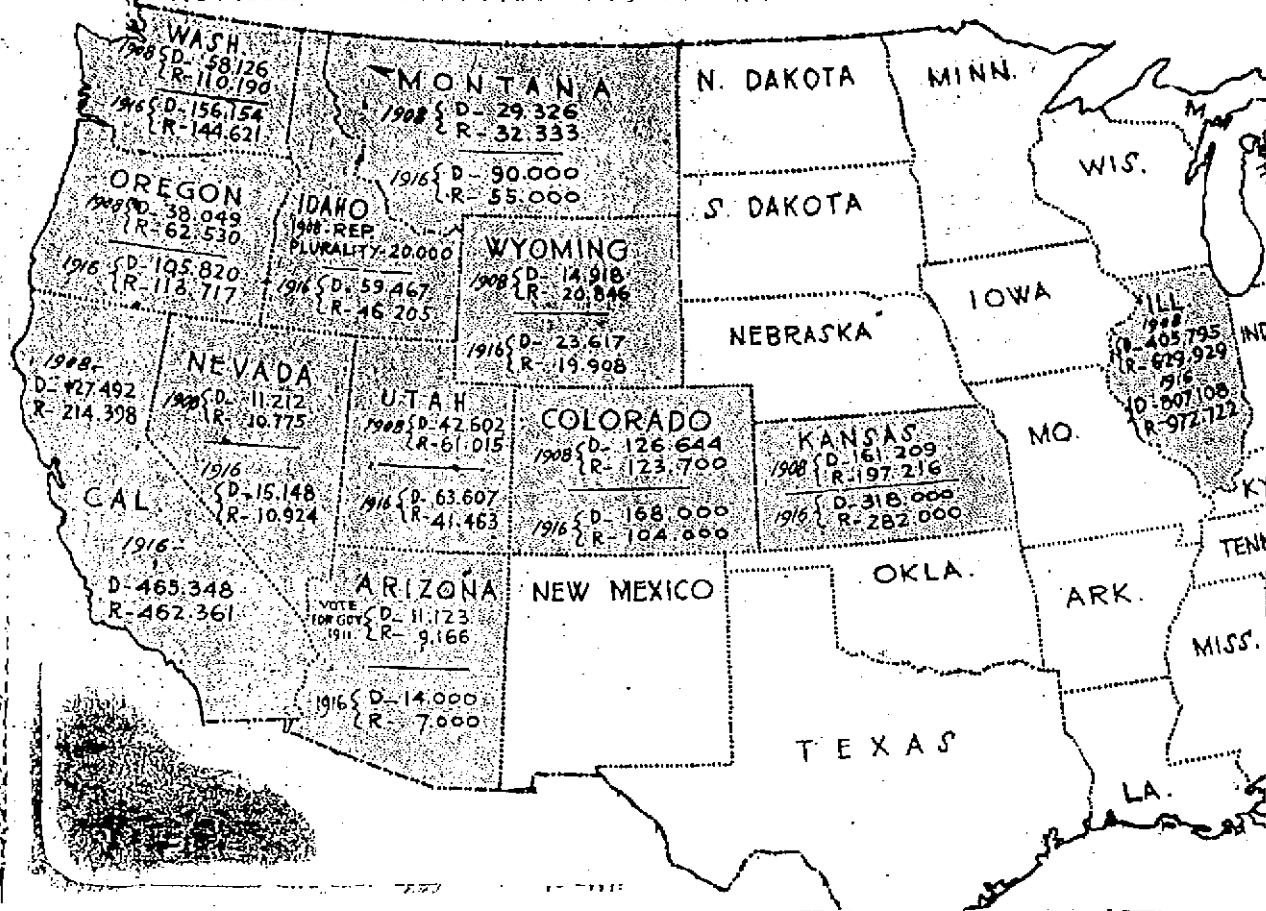

Montana elects the first woman member of Congress. True it is that "Westward the star of empire takes its way." The name of this woman will be secure in history whether or not she ever does anything noteworthy in the high office to which she has been elected.

Most men predicted a close election; but it proved a little too close for comfort. It is all right to stand in front of the bulletin boards for one night, but men do not like to keep this up for several days and nights, and then not know where they are at.

It is reported that a drop in the price of apples is expected. And apples are one of the cheapest of all farm products this fall. But, now as of old, "From his that hath not shall be taken away even that he hath."

The fact that inauguration day falls on Sunday next March is not the most important consideration in connection with the late election.

WHAT DID THE WOMEN DO TO HUGHES? SEE THE SUFFRAGE STATE FIGURES.

Every woman suffrage state of the Union showed a remarkable change in the presidential vote over that of eight years ago, according to the best figures for the 1916 contest. The eight suffrage states which have been admitted to the Union since the Taft-Bryan contest showed remarkable reversal of form.

Washington, a bed-rock Republican state, which went to woman suffrage in 1910, cut its Republican plurality from 52,000 in 1908 to less than 12,000 this year.

Oregon, giving women the suffrage in 1913, gave Taft a plurality of 21,009 and gave Hughes less than 8,000.

California, which let women vote in 1911, has turned its Republican plurality of $6,000 to a Democratic plurality of 3,000 or more.

Nevada, giving suffrage in 1914, increased its Democratic plurality from 500 to 8,000.

Idaho, one of the old suffrage states, having gone in in 1896, turned a Republican plurality of 20,000 into a Democratic plurality of 16,000 or more.

Montana, becoming a woman suffrage state in 1914, made the most remarkable plurality of about 3,000 into a Democratic plurality of 35,000 or more.

Wyoming, a suffrage state in 1890, changed from 6,000 Republican to 4,000 Democratic in a total vote of a little over 40,000.

Utah, the home of Reed Smoot, of the old guard, which gave women the suffrage in 1870, also showed a remarkable change, turning a Republican plurality of about 19,000 to a Democratic plurality of 22,000.

Arizona, becoming a suffrage state in 1912, gave a Democratic plurality of less than 2,000 five years ago, and a Democratic plurality of 7,000 this year.

Colorado, also another old suffrage state, having granted women the vote in 1893, made a most remarkable change. The Democratic plurality in 1908 was less than 3,000, but this year it is about 52,000.

Kansas, the home of the staunch Republican, where women got the vote in 1912, gave Taft a plurality of 38,000; she gave Wilson a plurality of 36,000.

In Illinois, where a million men voted in 1903, they gave the Republican candidate a plurality of 224,000; when a half million women were added, the Democratic candidate was beaten in 1916 by 165,000. If the women there had voted as did the men in 1908 and the men had also done the same, Mr. Hughes would have carried the state by about 310,000.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Novel, But Inconvenient

(From the New York Evening Post.)

A woman in Congress! That marks a political revolution indeed, and it will help to assure for the woman suffragists their bitter disappointment in their apparent defeat in both South Dakota and West Virginia. Indubitably, Congress will gain by Miss Rankin's appearance, but for her it will doubtless be a great ordeal to be the first woman to appear in one of the greatest parliaments in the world. The fact that she is the first woman to receive such an honor will surely help her over the embarrassments of her position. If she speaks, that will help her in the cloakroom; but somehow we cannot fit her in, do the best we can, to some of the cloakroom habits and manners. The clerk, of course, will stumble over the "Miss" as he calls the roll, and the visitors to the galleries will first of all look for "that girl from Montana," with the feminine part, casting a very critical eye over her attire. But, after all, the world has moved so rapidly that she will be but a nine days' wonder. There will be nothing like the prejudice and bad manners for her to encounter which were the lot of the women pioneers in the fields of medicine and law and politics.

The Colonel as a Campaigner

(From the New York World, Dem.)

The Colonel's efforts as a campaigner were uniformly successful. He travelled clear to Arizona and spoke at Phoenix, and Arizona went for Wilson. He spoke at Gallup, N. M., and New Mexico swung into the Democratic column. He spoke at Denver, and Colorado made a new record with its Democratic majority. He spoke in Kansas, and Kansas for the first time since 1896 gave its electoral vote to the Democratic candidate for President. He spoke in Maine, and the normal Republican majority fell off 50 per cent. A little more assistance from the Colonel might have made things practically unanimous wherever he stopped.

OFFICIAL FIGURES ON STATE ELECTION

Few Changes Made From Press Reports; Progressives Lose Their Rating as Party.

Concord, Nov. 13—There were no new developments today, in reference to a possible inspection of the votes cast in New Hampshire for President. The next move with the definite assurance that President Wilson had a plurality, is up to the Republican state committee and no action will be taken by the committee until word is received from National Chairman Wilcox. The feeling is growing, however, that there will be no recount of the New Hampshire vote.

The full official count of the vote for president, for governor, with the exception of the vote of the town of Dummer; and for congressmen, councilors and state senators, was given out late today and did not change the prevailing idea about a recount. Wilson's plurality stands as previously reported, at 63. The Socialist vote was 1,319 and the prohibitionist, 296.

Lacking the handful of votes in Dummer, the official count does not proceed to a final return of the Keyes majority for governor, but shows that with this town missing, the Republican candidate led John C. Hutchins; his Democratic opponent by 7,053 votes. Wilkins, Socialist, received 1,195 votes and Meras, Prohibitionist, 288, while three votes are returned as "Scattering."

Forty-eight Progressives voted for Keyes as the nominee of that party. The 43 falling far below the limit of three per cent of the total vote removes the Progressives from the official list of parties in the state.

In the first congressional district, Sulloway has a plurality of 2,024 and a majority of 1,281. In the second Wilson has 2,181 plurality and 1,486 majority.

The convention vote was: Yes, 21,619; No, 11,515.

RESCUED "FIGHTING" BOB EVANS

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 13.—Captain James A. Hamilton died at his home on Church street this morning, aged 81. He was junior of the Republican headquarters during a part of the recent campaign, but was forced to give up the work because of ill-health. He served in the navy four years during the Civil war and at the battle of Fort Fisher made the acquaintance of Rear Admiral "Fighting Bob" Evans, under unusual circumstances.

Private Hamilton was a member of a landing party, and during the fighting found Lieut. Evans under the breast works suffering from a bad wound in his leg. Hamilton carried him to a place of safety and applied a tourniquet to the wound. He then left him to be picked up by the hospital men, and the incident was almost forgotten until years afterward, when Captain Hamilton and Rear Admiral Evans met at a New York celebration. Their recognition was mutual, and led to a friendship which lasted until the death of Rear Admiral Evans.

Captain Hamilton was born in Bangor and came to Nashua in 1871 with his parents. He engaged in the manufacture of awnings. He was a member of the G. A. R. and Odd Fellows and Masons. ARGUMENT BEGINS IN COURT ON WHITE SLAVERY

Will Determine Exact Application of Mann Act.

Washington, Nov. 14.—Argument over whether the Mann "White Slave" act applies to personal immoral escapades or only to cases involving transportation of women for commercial gain began late yesterday before the supreme court. The law itself has been upheld by the court, but the question of interpretation is raised for the first time in appeals of F. Drew Cambriett and Maury L. Dillig of Sacramento and L. T. Hays of Alva, Okla., charged with transporting women in violation of the law, but with the elements of commercialism and coercion absent.

The present administration of the department of justice has brought prosecutions in all cases of transportation of women for immoral purposes, whether for commercial purposes or not.

During yesterday's hearing Henry O. Glasser, of counsel for the appellants, insisted that the title of the "White Slave" act itself indicated absence of intent by Congress to have the law applied to cases of "mere immorality." He asserted that a fair interpretation of the act was that it was intended solely to stamp out organized or unorganized traffic in women for immoral purposes by prohibiting their interstate transportation.

Republican National Committee to Be Under Fire on Campaign Expenditures.

(Special to The Herald)
Washington, Nov. 14.—Plans were completed today by the administration leaders for a state investigation into the charges that the Republican national committee spent hundreds of thousands of dollars illegally in the recent election. The matter was under discussion by President Wilson and some of the Democratic senators who are here and it was decided to start the investigation as soon as the senate convened in December. The large number of senators here has led to the impression that a special session would be called but this was denied.

WANTS JOB WITH A. F. OF L.

John Hays an Active Candidate for Secretary of the Federation of Labor.

(Special to The Herald)
Baltimore, Md., Nov. 14.—A warm fight against the re-election of Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, is indicated here today when the friends of John Hays, secretary of the International Typographical Union, began a campaign to make him secretary. It promises to be the feature of the entire convention as both men have many friends.

Mrs. Grant's Return
The Grant administration brought a brilliant throng of military officers to the capital, and the young people of the president's family—he had a daughter and several sons—made the White House gay. Mrs. Grant was plain to appearance, unpretentious in manner, but genuinely hospitable and quicker witted than she was generally given credit for being.

Addressed in French by a young diplomat at one of her receptions, she responded in English.

"Ah," said the bumptious foreigner, attempting to be facetious. "Madame does not speak French? How surprising! In Europe all the ladies of the upper class speak French and generally two or three other languages besides."

"I know," said Mrs. Grant dryly, "and can understand why this must be on a continent divided into so many small kingdoms, some of them smaller than our smallest states, each speaking a different language, but in our great, united country, one language only is spoken from end to end of it. We need no other."

The astounded foreigner retired.—Ex. change.

The "Dominion" of Canada.
We are accustomed to take the expression of the "Dominion" of Canada for granted, but the original of that somewhat unusual word is known to very few. When at length the great scheme of Sir John Macdonald was realized, and the nine provinces grouped themselves together into one great confederation, a serious difficulty was presented by the choice of a suitable name. For a time almost a deadlock ensued.

At length one old member of parliament rose from his seat and told his colleagues that he had read in his Bible that very morning the words, "The dominion shall be from the one sea to the other." Accordingly he suggested that Canada should be known as the Dominion, or God's Land. The suggestion seized upon the hearts and imaginations of those present, and it was promptly acted upon.—Fall Mall Gazette.

In the Stocks.
In England the punishment of the stocks has been inflicted within the memory of men now living. In the Manchester Guardian of June 14, 1872, there is an account of a man enduring this form of punishment at Newbury. He was a rag and bone dealer of intemperate habits and was fixed in the stocks for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. "Twenty-six years had elapsed since the stocks were last used," states this account, "and their reappearance created no little sensation and amusement, several hundreds of persons being attracted to the spot where they were fixed." The "amusement" does not appear to have been shared by the prisoner, who was released after four hours and "seemed anything but pleased with the laughter and derision of the crowd."

Truth Parallel.
The prejudices of one age are condemned even by the prejudiced of the succeeding ages. The truth haters of every future generation will call the truth haters of another generation by their true names—for even these the stream of time carries onward. In fine, truth, considered in itself and in the efforts natural to it, may be considered as a gentle spring or water course, warm from the genial earth and breasting up into the snowdrift that is piled up and around its outlet. It turns the obstacle into its own form and character and as it makes its way increases its stream. And should it be arrested in its course by a chilling season it suffers delay, not loss, and waits only for a change in the wind to awaken again and roll onward.—Taylor Coleridge.

Painting and Music.
Whereas, while polish, refinement, culture and breeding are in no way arguments for artistic result, it is also no reproach to the most finished school or greatest gentleman in the land that he be absolutely without eye for painting or ear for music—that in his heart he prefer the popular print to the scratch of Rembrandt's needle, or the songs of the ball to Beethoven's C minor symphony.—James MacNeill Whistler.

ELECTION WORRIES CAUSED HIS DEATH

Undue excitement and worry during the period of doubt following the presidential election is held responsible for the death of Patrick J. Smythe, postmaster of Berlin, N. H., which occurred at Portland on Monday. It was known that Mr. Smythe was greatly disturbed over the possibility of a change in the administration which would have meant his retirement next spring, the end of the four years' term.

He came to Portland Saturday for a short stay and was apparently in the best of health.

Mr. Smythe, previous to his appointment to the postmastership of Berlin, was for nine years city clerk. He was one of the city's most prominent citizens, a party leader and was prominently identified with the Knights of Columbus. A wife and four children survive him.

ONLY TWO PARALLELS TO ELECTION SUSPENSE

New York, Nov. 13.—Only two parallels are found in American history to the long suspense experienced this year in determining the result of the presidential election.

In 1851 it took three days to learn that Grover Cleveland had won by gaining New York state's electoral vote from James G. Blaine with only 1,160 majority. In 1876 it took an Electoral Commission to decide the famous Tilden-Hayes contest.

It is interesting to note that the contests of 1876, 1884 and 1916 were contests of men in which dominating personality played a large part. This is particularly true of the 1884 and 1916. Roscoe Conkling, the brilliant Senator from New York, had much to do with the eventual outcome of these two countries.

In the case of the Tilden-Hayes fight it was said Mr. Conkling was of the opinion Mr. Hayes had not been elected President and therefore should not be declared the victor. If Senator Conkling had acted on this view he could have marshalled enough votes in the Senate to throw the electoral vote of Louisiana to Mr. Tilden. But he failed to act on the matter, and tradition says that in so doing he was influenced by a brilliant woman who took that means of venting upon Mr. Tilden her anger because he had caused the defeat of her father Salmon P. Chase, in the Democratic Presidential Convention of 1868.

Prior to 1916 the Blaine-Cleveland campaign of 1881 was easily the most sensational Presidential campaign in fifty years. Blaine was the idol of the Republican hosts and undoubtedly would have been President had it not been for the unfortunate "Ham, Monism and Rebellion" utterance of Dr. Richard in the Fifth Avenue Hotel on the evening of election. Mr. Blaine neglected to repudiate his sentiment, and as a result more than enough votes were turned in New York alone to defeat him. The Burchard episode, coupled with the relentless hostility of Rescoe Conkling, made the defeat of Mr. Blaine, as it afterward turned out, inevitable.

The enmity between the two men of dominating personality went back to their rivalry for the leadership of Congress. Efforts were made by friends at various times to patch up the quarrel, but Mr. Conkling was implacable. His bitterness toward Mr. Blaine caused more than 1,000 of his supporters in his home county. Outside, to vote directly for Mr. Cleveland, thereby furnishing enough votes to turn the tide of battle.

As it became evident that the race would be close to the last, the excitement throughout the nation, and particularly in New York, was intense. On the day after election it was announced that Mr. Cleveland had carried New York, Indiana, New Jersey and Connecticut, together with "the solid south," thereby winning 226 electoral votes to 170 for Mr. Blaine.

The Republican managers disputed these figures. They said that late returns from up-state New York would show a plurality for Mr. Blaine. And, indeed, for a time it looked as if their predictions would be fulfilled. The Democrats charged that Jay Gould, a warm friend and political supporter of Mr. Blaine, was using the Western Union Telegraph Company, which he controlled, to hold back the election returns.

The situation became so serious that A. P. Gorman, chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, on Friday November 4, issued the following statement:

"The National Democratic Committee announces to the people of the United States that Grover Cleveland and Thomas A. Hendricks have carried 219 electoral votes for the offices of President and Vice President.

"The states which have declared in their favor are Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia carrying all 219 electoral votes—eighteen votes more than sufficient to elect.

"No fraud or confidence can defeat the will of the people of the United States thus publicly and deliberately declared."

Late that afternoon the belated returns from up-state came through and they issued the election of Mr. Cleveland. Jay Gould was one of the first to congratulate Mr. Cleveland on the event.

INAUGURAL BALL PLANS MAKING IN CAPITAL.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Political and civic leaders here already are making plans for the second inauguration of Woodrow Wilson on March 5, 1917. President Wilson within a few days will be asked to appoint an inaugural chairman. Democratic leaders are practically unanimous in the opinion that Mr. Wilson will also sanction the inaugural ball plans, and they now are discussing tentative arrangements for continuing this time-honored custom.

The inaugural ball would be the first big public social gathering of the administration at which the "first lady of the land" would meet prominent men and women from all parts of the United States. As Mrs. Wilson has been a resident of Washington for many years, she is familiar with the ball custom, and it is predicted by social leaders that she will graciously accept as her duty such an occasion to herald a new social season in the National Capital.

The inaugural balls are held in the court of the pension office, the only place in the Capital large enough to accommodate the throngs which attend. As soon as President Wilson names the inaugural chairman and indicates his willingness to attend the inaugural ball local committees will begin their work of preparing for the event.

From states throughout the union applications for hotel reservations are pouring in. Scores of requests are coming from democratic marching clubs. Hotel proprietors say that the number of early reservations made indicates that Washington may be called upon to entertain one of the largest gatherings ever brought here to witness the elaborate inaugural ceremonies.

ALLEGED WIFE MURDERER SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL

Keene, Nov. 13.—Eugene A. Weeks, who is charged with the murder of his wife by shooting at Westport on August 10, was today taken to the state hospital at Concord for observation. Sheriff Lord went over to Concord with Weeks this afternoon, the order having been signed by Judge Branch of the superior court for his commitment to the hospital last Saturday.

It is alleged that Weeks shot his wife and then jumped in the river near his home with a suicidal intent, but he swam ashore and spent the night in the woods and was arrested the next afternoon. He was indicted by the grand jury on being arraigned before Judge Branch in the superior court pleaded not guilty. He was represented by Joseph Madden and Roy M. Dickard.

Dr. Whitfield M. Thompson, superintendent of the Hartford, Conn., insane asylum; Dr. Charles P. Bancroft, of Winchester; Dr. A. B. Weston, Dr. E. C. Hayland and Dr. Robert W. Holmes of Keene have examined Weeks at the jail on various occasions and it is understood that they agreed to have him committed to the state asylum for observation. In case Weeks is found to be all right he will be returned to Keene for trial at the April term of superior court.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If peevish, feverish and sick, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign his little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Nov. 13.—Farmers and owners of woodland are urged by State Forester Frank William Kane to take advantage of the present condition of fuel prices by cutting off the moth-eaten or ill-shaved dead trees and felling the wood thus produced. He points out that this will afford cheap fuel for the people, improve the present woodland conditions and besides assure the future forests of the state of a better start. "The war," said Mr. Kane, "is having its effect on the wood market. A year or so ago this department was desponding of the possibility of selling cordwood in large quantities, and we have been investigating the practicability of establishing some kind of plant which would use this wood to make charcoal and wood alcohol, as it could not be sold otherwise. Suddenly, we find the situation changed. The wood is at a premium. People are trying to buy all they can get hold of. We find a shortage in the supply, an increased demand and a greatly increased price. This is due to the increased price of coal, for which wood is the substitute. This department stands ready to aid all private owners who want to cut wood because of pyroxy moth, blight or other forestry purposes this winter. We will get them wood choppers if possible and aid them in the disposal of the wood. Call on the State Forester at the State House if you want help or advice."

Boston, Nov. 13.—"American people are drunk with prosperity," declared Dr. Hugh Cabot in an address before the Master Builders' Association here. Dr. Cabot had just returned from six months with the British Expeditionary force in France. "One of the objects of my return to this country," he said, "was to get the American point of view of the situation. I think I have got it, and it makes me feel as if I had typhoid fever. Every one has been making money and all are satisfied, but there are going to be a lot of fellows as cross as the devil when the industrial slump comes. Everybody is driving a devil wagon and in the farming districts they leave one for the wife and another for the boys. The American people are in a shockingly unprepared condition to cope with the industrial revolution which is sure to come after the war."

What has become of the "office boy"? This question has been asked by employment agencies with alarming results. The agencies find that the so-called office boy has become a numbing word as that the market for office boys has gone up 100 per cent in price and supply. War prosperity and war prices has hit the office boy and he has been decimated for the improvement of his lot. One employment agency in Boston has been advertising for 1200 office boys to meet the demands of their clients but without results. The office boys have gone. An investigation showed that office boys who were getting from $5 to $6 a week were now working in munition factories getting as high as $18 a week for their labors.

Boston will be worth over four billion dollars thirty years from now, if it is taken for granted that the real estate wealth will increase at the same rate it has during the last thirty years. In the year 1885 the total property value of this city was $700,000,000, while today it is almost two billion. It is the general feeling among leading Boston real estate men that what has hampered Boston's growing at even greater rate than these figures show, is the fact that this city has only two business centers where it should have at least six. These two centers are the downtown business section and the district around Huntington and Massachusetts avenues.

Boston, Nov. 14.—Postoffice employees, employees of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Customs house and the Immigration service have opened a campaign to secure old age pensions for civil service employees of the federal government. It is expected that the movement will spread all over the United States and that some legislation along the line of old age pensions will be asked of the next congress. The movement was started in Boston at a big mass meeting of the civil service employees of the postoffice, customs house and Immigration service. The claim is that the loss to the United States government through the retention of superannuated employees is evident in both money and efficiency. Yet nothing has been done and largely because the employees have not been organized for the purpose. The first duty was to educate the public.

Henry Clay Barnabee, famous opera singer, is 83 years old today. Opera goes of the last century will remember him as Sir Joseph Porter of the Queen's Nave. He played the Sheriff of Nottingham in "Robin Hood" no less than 1900 times. He was the man for whom Victor Herbert wrote the "Singing Girl" and the "Fortune Teller," the man who carried "Mignon" and the "Bohemian Girl" and "The Chocolate Soldier" from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Mr. Barnabee appears just as young in spirit today as ever and he passed the day receiving congratulations from all parts of the world.

Billy Sunday is delighted with his Boston tabernacle, but is not as happy over its cost of construction. The plant, including the tabernacle, restaurant and other buildings, has cost more than $50,000, an amount much larger than has ever been paid out in any other city in a campaign. The fire ordinances of Boston required a brick building while Mr. Sunday has always spoken in wooden buildings. However, when he arrived at the tabernacle for the first time and looked about its interior he said to Joe Splice, who stood by his side: "Joe this is great." After he finished his first talk in the "low building," he sought out the tabernacle builder, and with a smile of approval said to him: "Joe, I have talked in many buildings, but never in one so easy on my voice."

Fifteen hundred cooks and waiters of Boston have presented a new wage schedule to the Hotel Men's Association. A strike is said to be threatened if they do not get a raise in wages. A statement issued by John J. Kearney, business agent of the union, claims that the standard wage of the waiters is $30 a month and has been so in the best hotels in the city for many years. The wage for porters is $7 a week for seven days of 12 to 14 hours each and the tips received are turned over to the head porter.

BOSTON MILK WAR DECLARED AT END

SECRETARY PATTEE SAYS THAT ADVANCE OF FOUR CENTS IS SATISFACTORY

The directors of the New England Milk Producers' Association at a meeting yesterday at the Quincy House, Boston, voted to recommend to the farmers that they accept the prices offered by the Elm Farm Company, C. Brigham Company, D. Whiting & Sons Co., Ida S. Graustein and Alden Bros. These prices represent a minimum advance of four cents per 3 1-2 quart can over prices paid last year.

Sec. Pattee of the association said yesterday that the prices offered are satisfactory and the directors have recommended resumption of milk shipments, thus ending the milk war in this city.

He estimates that the producers will receive about $200,000 more for their milk this winter than a year ago.

The directors voted to call a conference of all the dairy interests of New England at Springfield Nov. 28 for the purpose of forming a greater New England milk organization to include the farmers producing milk for all New England markets.

A smoker was held in Moose Hall last evening by the Plumb and Steamfitters Local. This local has just been organized and is affiliated with the Central Labor Union. Speakers were present from the several other labor unions in the city.

A STRANGE THING

It is, that more people do not realize the true economy of having footwear mended by experts. Why suffer needlessly with stiff new shoes that hurt when you can have your comfortable old ones made to look like new and to give you good service for a long time, if you bring them to us for work in shoe repairing?

Give our careful work in this line a fair trial. We get all orders out promptly.

BERLIN PRESS SEES PEACE AID IN ELECTION

BELIEVES PRESIDENT WILSON'S VICTORY LARGELY DUE TO VOTE OF PACIFISTS.

Berlin, via London, Nov. 12.—President Wilson's attitude toward the warring nations of Europe is gradually changing according to the Frankfurter Zeitung, which in discussing Mr. Wilson's re-election says:

"Germany's relations with America depend in the highest degree upon the future views and sentiments of this hard and self-willed personality, but certain signs indicate that President Wilson is gradually taking a more unbiased standpoint than hitherto. 'How does it happen that large circles of American people, including women voters, prefer Wilson to Hughes for sentimental reasons? Because they assume his ambition remains to keep the republic out of the gigantic conflict of the other great powers. Whatever one says about the vitality of pacifists, ideals we will commit the gravest error in underestimating their power over the American nation. 'Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg would probably shrink from being regarded as a sentimental dreamer, yet he unequivocally proclaims the goal of humanity to be 'agreements and understandings.' That contrasts very strikingly with the rude words with which former Premier Clemenceau of France ridiculed Wilson as 'this more than fantastic orator.'"

"President Wilson will have, first, to ascertain how the entire stands toward his plans. Only then can he expect that Germany which certainly has not been coddled by him, will occupy itself with his ideas. South America Pleasants with Wilson's Re-election

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 13.—The re-election of President Wilson has evoked widespread favorable comment throughout South America. The press generally approves the choice. This opinion is typically reflected in an editorial in La Nacion, Argentina's most powerful daily.

"President Wilson's triumph is particularly agreeable on account of his tendency toward friendly conciliation, which is invariably inspiring in South American policies.

"The Democratic program, contrasting Republican imperialism, has made justice the basis of the international policies of the United States. President Wilson's fulfillment of this program in a measure, surpasses predictions.

"The pure character of his administration is particularly significant because it has been unimpaired by any purpose of commercial advantage, but

SUB COMMISSIONS, PLAN TO REGULATE RAILROADS.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Trade bodies in all parts of the United States have come forward with recommendations to be considered by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in its study of railroad problems to be worked out here by the Newlands joint congressional committee beginning November 20.

Many of the suggestions received are in response to invitations from the Railway Business Associations and the New York Merchants' Association to other commercial bodies to insist on action by the National Chamber of Commerce in the investigation.

It was announced today by Secretary Goodwin of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States the association advocates especially the United States Government regulate interstate commercialities of the interstate commerce except in those spheres which are distinctly intrastate. Also that Congress create regional sub-commissions governed by a board appointed by the President and subordinate to the Interstate Commerce Commission, to regulate traffic.

Finally, the association recommends that Congress insure reasonable extension of rail highways into new regions as well as the improvement of existing roads by permitting rates that yield earnings sufficient to attract investment in new construction.

A proposal for the enforcement of a contractual relation between employers and employees on public utilities, as a means of preventing strikes, has been distributed to commercial organizations by the Merchants' Association of New York. The National Chamber of Commerce has been asked to submit to its members the question outlined.

The merchants' association has declared in favor of giving the Federal government, through the Interstate Commerce Commission, control over railroad rates and regulation within state limits.

"The Association supports federal incorporation of railroads, federal supervision of the issue of securities by interstate carriers, and the enlargement of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The association voices strong opposition to government ownership of public utilities.

FEEDS NEARLY 1000 OF NEW YORK'S POOR.

Result of Immigrant's Vow Years Ago. New York, Nov. 13.—Twenty years ago, Max Gootschiender, with his wife and baby girl, arrived in New York penniless from Volna, Russia. He begged help from a charitable organization and was given a job as a fur dyer. In return he made a vow that when his daughter should be married, all men who were hungry, as he was then, should be fed.

The immigrant became a prosperous fur dealer, and yesterday announced the coming marriage of his daughter, to a diamond merchant. He drove to the Hebrew society's headquarters in his limousine and explained that he was ready to keep the vow made a score of years ago.

"How many immigrants have you here now?" he asked. He was told about 200.

"Not enough," he declared. "Go out into the neighborhood. I want to feed any number up to 1000 perhaps more if you can get them."

Nearly 1000 poor were fed at his expense between 1 p. m. and midnight.

TREASON TALES LED TO GERMAN-BELGIAN SUICIDE

Berlin, Nov. 14.—Dispatches from Antwerp report details of the sensational suicide of Bernard Buchsweiler, president of the Central Bank of Antwerp. The banker had suffered from mental depression since the beginning of the war, because he believed his social position in Belgium ruined forever. As a young man he had come to Antwerp from his native town Offenbach, near Frankfurt. Within a comparatively short time he rose to wealth and great financial and political influence. After his election to the presidency of the Central Bank he became one of the most powerful financiers of Belgium.

When the war broke out he publicly proclaimed his loyalty to his adopted country, but he was not disturbed in his position by the Germans after the conquest of Antwerp. The German army officers and civil officials treated him with respect, but the Belgians began to shun him. Rumors charging him with treason were circulated and this was more than his spirit could bear. He began to brood and all efforts of his friends to cheer him up were in vain.

For weeks he would not leave his house, because he feared to be insulted on the street by the Belgians. When this actually happened he took a train for Antwerp, where he ended his life by hanging himself. He was unmarried and his large fortune goes to his only sister, who is married to a banker in Frankfurt.

BURYING THE HATCHET

Reconciliation being over, let us adversaries forget And be united as we ought And think the battle bravely fought. Remembering, for good or ill, The verdict is the people's will.

Some of us are displeased no doubt With the result, and fail to shout Approval with our brethren who Are jubilant the country through Because our worthy President Succeeds himself. They are content.

And those who differ in their views Political should not refuse These differences to forget Because defeat their party met. When it becomes imperative For all true citizens to give

Their best attention to advance The country's welfare, and enhance The virtue that in freedom lies And found but here without disguise; And there will come another day When these now "out" shall have their say.

This truth none should be slow to learn, For 'tis to all of grave concern The will of the majority Must always rule where men are free. By such decisions must abide The weaker, if the wiser, side. —J. E. MOORE.

PACIFIC FLEET TO MEET AT SAN DIEGO.

Naval Commission to Study Defense Plans and Permanent Aeronautic Training Base Will be Considered. San Diego, Cal., Nov. 13.—All available units of the Pacific Fleet will be assembled here in the latter part of this month, during the visit of the Naval Commission headed by Rear Admiral James H. H. It was announced here today. The board, it is understood will consider the proposal to establish a permanent naval aeronautic training base at North Island, in conjunction with the present army aviation school, and also will look into the matter of constructing a supply and submarine station in adjacent territory.

ELECTRIC LINES MUCH DELAYED

The rain last evening, coupled with the extreme cold, raised havoc with the street car line schedules and the trips in the late evening were run more than 20 minutes behind time, owing to the sudden cold the rain froze to the trolley wire as it struck and it was almost impossible to keep the trolley on the wire for more than a very short distance. As the cars came into the square from Congress street the flashes of blue flames lit the entire business part of the city as though a severe lightning storm was in progress.

'MASTER SPY' HEARING HAS 1ST INTEREST

ALL WASHINGTON EAGER FOR LATEST DEVELOPMENT IN POSSIBLE SERIOUS INTERNATIONAL TANGLE.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The case of Dr. Armand Graves, "the master spy" under bond since Saturday, charged with attempted blackmail of Countess von Bernstorff, had today developed into that ancient problem: "Now that they've got him, what will they do with him?"

Washington, which seldom has been so thrilled with a mystery in its midst, is waiting for Wednesday's preliminary hearing with great anticipation. Revelations concerning the secret service methods of the European governments are expected, particularly since it became known today that Count von Bernstorff had notified his government that a sealed package directed to him by the foreign office has been broken open and part of its contents stolen. Whether the ambassador has in mind the letters taken by Justice department agents from the Washington Hotel safe, where Dr. Graves had deposited them, is not known.

Graves himself hints these letters are of the highest importance to the German government—that they are the letters which he expected to sell to the ambassador—not the letters addressed to Countess von Bernstorff. As for the latter letters he and embassy members are one in saying they contain nothing calculated to embarrass the countess personally. The embassy has declared Graves thought they would have this effect and he demanded money for them on that ground. Graves has made two statements in answer to this. One is that the letters, from a prominent German woman to the countess, contain hidden meanings and form an important communication from the home government to the ambassador. The other is that he knew they were of no importance and simply was exhibiting them to Prince Hatfield as proof that he had obtained possession of other mail for which the embassy would be willing to pay.

Many of the models we show represent the development of our own ideas as to lasts and combinations and are exclusive with us.

The distinctly English boots with low and medium heels are highly endorsed for smart street wear.

More dressy type styles for afternoon and evening retain the graceful Louis XV. and Cuban heels.

The business meeting of the lodge was held in the afternoon previous to the reception. In addition to the members of Star Lodge there were present thirty members from Mount Washington and Granite State Lodges of Dover as well as a delegation from Union Lodge of Rochester. A pleasing musical and literary program was presented. Mrs. Blanche Adams Young of Rochester rendered several readings that received unstinted applause and instrumental music was furnished by Archie Marshall, violinist and Miss Robinson, pianist.

Mrs. Trueman was given a most agreeable surprise when Noble Lady, Mrs. Sule Harlow in behalf of Star Lodge presented her with a costly gold chain and locket. Mrs. Trueman thanked her associates for their timely remembrance in well chosen words. She was then presented with a beautiful bouquet of white and purple chrysanthemums by Mrs. Harriet Moore, this being the gift of the Odd Ladies Circle and with a bouquet of violets by Mrs. Mae Gowen. Mrs. Saddle Jenkins in behalf of the members of Star Lodge presented Lady Conductress Mrs. Mae Gowen with a costly hand bag and bouquet of violets.

During the reception Mrs. Foss of Granite State Lodge of Dover, Mrs. Gillis of Mount Washington Lodge of Dover, Mrs. Hayes of Union Lodge of Rochester and Mrs. Moore of Star Lodge of Portsmouth acted as ushers and performed their duties in a very able manner.

At the conclusion of the reception and presentation a buffet lunch of salads, rolls, ice cream, assorted cake, fruit and coffee was served.

The Dover and Rochester visitors took their departure for home at a late hour well pleased with the hospitality extended them by the members of Star Lodge.

Before leaving for their homes the members of Granite State Lodge extended an invitation to the members of Star Lodge to be their guests on Wednesday evening on the occasion of their 25th anniversary.

The members of Star Lodge and their guests will have nothing but pleasant recollections for many days to come of the reception and presentation tendered their grand officers on Monday evening.
